NEW SCHOOL SET TO OPEN IN SEPTEMBER

Head will man a stand in the Harvey Centre to tell parents about it

William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A NEW primary school to meet the demand for places in Harlow will open in the autumn.

Pemberley Academy will sit on the site of the former Rivermill Adult Education Centre in Hodings Road.

Newly appointed headteacher Neil Coster, 35, who lives in Harlow, said: "One of the biggest challenges is letting people in the area know that we are open and also reassuring those who have been given a place at Pemberley and are undecided if it will be a positive move."

Academy

Pemberley will be run by REAch2 Academy Trust, which was approached by education authority Essex County Council to open a new school to meet demand in the town.

An assistant head, three teachers and a teaching assistant have been appointed, with more staff expected to join as the school expands.

Classes will commence in September for Reception to Year 2 children and the school will then gradually be filled up to Year 6.

"This is my first post as a head teacher and it will be a very nice starting point for me with a small team," said Mr Coster, who spent nine years at Burnt Mill Academy before becoming assistant head at Little Parndon primary.

To try and spread word of the school Mr Coster will man a stand in the Harvey Centre on Monday (May 11) from 9am to 5pm to answer questions about the school.

He said: "We want to give pupils the best all-round holistic education experience possible. Initially

SOLEMN: The funeral cortege makes its way to Holy Cross Church in Harlow

Final farewell to DJ 'legend' Pepe

Hundreds attend funeral of popular nightclub spin king

William Mata

william.mata@hertsexnews.co.uk

FAMILY and friends said their final farewells to legendary Harlow DJ Pepe Herod, who was laid to rest at Parndon Wood cemetery on Thursday.

Mr Herod, best known for his performances on the decks at the former Tiffanys nightclub during the 1980s and '90s, died after a short battle with cancer. He was 68.

He is survived by his wife Mary, eight children, 19 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

More than 350 mourners attended the funeral service at Holy Cross Church, in Traces Road, and even more attended the interment during which doves were released. A wake was held at Parndon Sports Club.

Mr Herod's son Aiden, 34, said: "We could not really have asked for anything better. The turnout was really good, the sun was out and the proceedings went really well."

"There was a speech given by some of the grandchildren and everyone said they were really impressed with how they handled it."

He said his mother wanted to express her thanks to everyone who helped out with the funeral, adding: "It was a big community event and everyone wanted to help out and have a party."

Born in St Lucia, Mr Herod arrived in London in 1965 in search of a better life and moved to Harlow in 1969. As a DJ he earned a reputation as a pioneering influence in the town for his regular soul, funk and jazz sets at town centre nightclubs.

He was also respected as a loving family man and an inspirational father figure.

His eldest daughter Marie-Louise said: "He was positive in everything he dealt with. I always turned to him and nothing was ever a problem. He was taken too soon, we are devastated."

A disco night will be held at Parndon Sports Club on May 30 in his memory.

Town's new school set to open in September

the school will run conventionally following the curriculum, but we are looking to incorporate the 11 Before 11 scheme, to give pupils 11 out-of-school experiences before they leave."

Mr Coster added that he would also like to see older students taught by specific subject teachers rather than the 'jack-of-all-trades' approach adopted by many primary schools.

He is hoping for an initial intake of 60 students, with 15 in both Year 1 and 2, but it will be difficult to tell until after the May half-term when the ECC lifts restrictions on school referrals.

Based just down the road from Little Parndon Primary School, Pembroley will work alongside sister academy, Water Lane.

Target

By moving into a former school site new buildings do not need to be constructed and renovation works are under way. Mr Coster said that works are on target to be completed in time.

"My main hope in the first year is to a great learning environment and for the whole community to see what a successful school we are going to become," he added.

Mr Coster, who went to Tanys Dell Primary School, said: "As a local man I feel Harlow has given me an awful lot as a town and I feel this is an opportunity to enhance the community."

News of the school's opening was met with a mixed reception on social media, with Leanne Bradford commenting on the Star's Facebook page: "How surprising. Close half of Purford Green and have to open another primary. Don't tell me, next year another secondary will open on the old Passmores site."

However other comments were more positive, with Kellyanne Foskett writing: "Wishing Mr Coster every success at his new school, he was fab at Little Parndon."

Angela Munslow added: "Nice one Neil, you'll be fantastic."

NEW ARRIVAL: Proud dad Mark Stuttle with four-year-old son Levi and his new baby brother, Micah

You're royalty to us, say baby Micah's folks!

IT may not have attracted the attention of the world's media in the same way as that of another new arrival a few miles up the road in London, but for Harlow couple Mark and Rachel Stuttle the date of their new baby son's birthday is one they are never likely to forget.

For little Micah was born at Princess Alexandra Hospital on Saturday, May 2 – just four hours after the Duke and Duchess of Cambridge celebrated the much-anticipated arrival of their second child, Princess Charlotte Elizabeth Diana.

Micah, whose parents live in Blackbush Spring with their four-year-old son Levi, tipped the scales at healthy 6lb 14oz.

Rachel, 29, said: "It's nice just to have him born but it's an added bonus that he was born on the same day as the new princess.

"We won't ever forget his birthday. I just feel very lucky."

Princess Charlotte, who is fourth in line to the throne, was born in London St Mary's Hospital and weighed 8lb 3oz.

Father and son in the clear over brutal attack

CPS drops charges and ditches retrial on medical grounds

Court Reporter

star@hertssexnews.co.uk

A FATHER and son accused of a brutal attack on a teenager who was left with brain damage have walked free from court after the charge against them was dropped.

The decision not to proceed with the prosecution of Glen Mulkay, 48, and Kieron Mulkay, 21, was announced at Chelmsford Crown Court on Tuesday where the pair were due to face a retrial.

In October of last year a jury failed to reach a verdict after the Mulkays denied causing grievous bodily harm with intent.

This week a new jury was told the decision not to continue with the case was taken by the Crown Prosecution Service after it received medical advice that the affect on the victim could be catastrophic if he was asked to appear in court to give evidence.

Attacked

Glen Mulkay, formerly of Churchfield, Harlow, and now of Park Close, North Weald, and Kieron Mulkay, of Churchfield, Harlow, were alleged to have attacked 18-year-old Kabir Khan in the Ladyshot area of Harlow in October 2013.

Mr Khan was said to have suffered a fractured skull during what was treated by police at the time as a racially motivated assault.

During the original trial it was alleged the pair wielded a motorcycle chain, golf club and crowbar during the attack. The victim described how he was covered in blood from "a hole in my head".

The jury was told that Mr Khan lost four pints of blood, suffered a fit while lying on the pavement and thought he was going to die.

Kieron Mulkay admitted hitting Mr Khan but said he only did so in self defence after the victim ran at him with a knife following a dispute with another man.

Explaining the CPS's decision not to proceed with the retrial, prosecutor Gerard Renouf said: "Regarding the state of health of Mr Khan, it's a very serious situation.

"The decision of the CPS is we cannot request him to come to court [to give evidence] and that decision is supported by a neurosurgeon. It could be catastrophic."

Victim

Lawyers representing the Mulkays said the defence did not accept Mr Khan was the victim of an assault.

Judge John Dodd directed that not guilty verdicts should be recorded against both men, but added: "He [Mr Khan] was left with brain damage."

Austerity has not helped

SIR It is very late in the day but if any readers of this letter on polling day have not yet made up their mind on who to vote for – or indeed, whether to vote – may I draw their attention to a recent article by Nobel prize-winning economist Paul Krugman.

His detailed analysis shows that, contrary to Conservative claims, the current return to modest growth which is already slowing down again was hindered, not helped, by the austerity programme implemented immediately after the 2010 election.

He says all the economic research that allegedly supported the austerity push has been discredited. The austere ideology that dominated the discourse five years ago has collapsed to the point that hardly anyone still believes it. Hardly anyone, that is, except the coalition that still rules Britain.

He concludes: "Harsh austerity in depressed economies isn't necessary and does major damage when it is imposed. That was true of Britain five years ago and it's still true today."

Frank Jackson
Kingsmoor Road, Harlow

Percentage of the truth

SIR In his letter in last week's Star, Simon Carter points out that the Tories did not put 17.5 per cent VAT on every fuel bill in the land and states it was only eight per cent.

He is right but he fails to mention that the Tories tried to raise it to 17.5 per cent but lost the vote to do so in the House of Commons. So no brownie points there, Mr Carter.

With regard to the Liam Byrne letter mentioned by Frank Jackson in his letter, it is rather a tradition for the outgoing Treasury minister to leave a note for the incoming one. For instance, outgoing Tory chancellor Reginald Maudling left a note for the incoming Labour chancellor that said "Good luck, old cock, sorry to leave it in such a mess".

Finally, I am surprised that Guy Mitchinson would want to quote The Sun newspaper in his appreciation of Robert Halfon. Rupert Murdoch is telling the UK folk to vote Tory in England but the Scottish Sun, which is also owned by Murdoch, is telling the electorate to vote SNP.

Anyone would think that an Australian who pays not a penny in UK taxes was trying to manipulate the election result to suit himself and his buddies.

Do something to halt decline

SIR I fully agree with the statement made about Harlow by Bernard Chapman.

I am unable to get to the shops very often but the last time I went to our so-called town centre I was so sad to see that it has become a very delapidated ghost town.

How can we get excited about new restaurants and a cinema? Who will want to shop here?

For goodness sake, the powers-that-be must get their act together and do something to stop this decline.

Constance Usher
Foldcroft, Harlow

SIR I totally agree with Bernard Chapman and his comments about the town centre (Star, April 23).

Dog mess is a real problem

SIR Why is there so much disgusting dog mess around Old Harlow shopping centre and car parks recently? It is unseen in the dark and easily walked in by adults let alone children.

The shop owners, especially the supermarket and restaurants, must be at their wits end having it walked in their premises where there is food.

I'm sure there must be CCTV to catch the dog owners who are responsible and fine them. Better still, make them clean it up.

name and address supplied

Help sow the seeds of hope

SIR As spring is in full swing and the flowers begin to bloom, the British Polio Fellowship is offering schools packs of wildflower seeds as part of its 'Sowing the seeds of hope' campaign.

This campaign, which is running alongside a colouring competition for primary school children, is a way of raising awareness of the approximate 120,000 people living with the late effects of polio and post polio syndrome (PPS) in the UK.

PPS is a neurological condition that affects 80 per cent of polio survivors later in life, leaving them living with symptoms such as chronic fatigue, muscle weakness, sensitivity to the cold and breathing problems.

Although it affects a similar amount of people as Parkinson's and motor neurone disease, it benefits from only a fraction of the public and medical awareness and that is something that the charity is working hard to change.

This brilliant campaign will see schoolchildren plant seeds and watch them bloom with the PPS message in mind. For more information visit www.BritishPolio.org.uk

I myself have lived here a long time and the over the past year the town centre has gone right down.

We're losing all our good stores like Marks & Spencer and Robert Dyas. Little walk has closed and the old Odeon cinema has been a complete eyesore for years.

Come on, councillors, open your eyes and see how we are losing what was once a lovely town to a complete mess.

What is going to happen to all the shops closing? Nothing I suppose, they will just stand empty for years looking a mess.

Let's start bringing Harlow back to life.

Job well done by A&E staff

SIR On Sunday, April 26 I had to go the A&E department at Princess Alexandra Hospital and I would just like to thank all the staff, from the reception right through to when I left.

The staff were very busy and the time for waiting to see a doctor was three-four hours, but I was in and out in two-and-a-half hours.

There are people who moan about visiting A&E but what I saw was a department under pressure with a limited number of staff who did their very best to deal with the amount of people going through.

Those who need to visit A&E have to realise there will be a wait and must be patient.

Thank you once again to all the staff and doctors for doing a good job, not forgetting the people at the end of the phone on the NHS 111 service who gave me advice about going to hospital.

Estate a great place to live

SIR I don't always read the letters page in the Star but this week I did and was shocked to read one about Milwards ("We can't wait to move away", April 30).

My family have lived in Milwards since 1974 and have lovely neighbours. We are very community-minded in our area but don't live in one another's houses; we are there for each other if there is a problem.

Yes, we have and do have the odd one or two unpleasant people in our area but doesn't every area?

There are just under 400 hundred properties and you can't tell us we are all unpleasant people; there are some lovely hard-working families living on the estate.

I am sorry your correspondent

V(ote)-Day for contenders in election battle

Candidates in last-minute push for votes

ROBERT HALFON
Conservative

William Mata

william.mata@hertsexnews.co.uk

WITH voters going to the polls today (Thursday) for what is being predicted as the tightest General Election in decades, the seven candidates for Harlow have been busy with last-minute campaigning.

Conservative Robert Halfon, who is looking to defend the 4,925 majority he won in 2010, is facing a strong challenge from Labour's Suzy Stride in what previously has been a marginal constituency.

The result could depend on the level of support for the five other candidates contesting the seat - Geoff Seeff (Liberal Democrat), Sam Stoppelcamp (Ukip), Murray Sackwild (Green), Eddy Butler (English Democrats) and Dave Brown (TUSC).

This week Mr Halfon said he had worked hard to cut fuel duty, bring jobs and apprenticeships back to the town, support Harlow housing for Harlow people, protect the NHS and ensure immigration is fair to the taxpayer.

"Unemployment is now much lower than in 2010, apprenticeships have increased by over 100 per cent and a brand new technical school has been built at Harlow College with £10m investment from the government, giving huge opportunities to Harlow's young people," he said.

"Harlow now has an Enterprise Zone being built from a £50m-plus investment into our town, bringing more jobs and opportunities. Our NHS received a funding boost of £4m and our doctors will be able to open for longer due to an injection of £24m from the government. I will champion rebuilding of our town centre.

"During this election I've been approached by many people from all political parties who say they'll vote for me regardless of their politics. This is because they know I'm a passionate community MP."

Labour rival Ms Stride said she was proud of the campaign run in Harlow which she described as a "grassroots effort made up of ordinary people canvassing in

Council seats also up for grabs

VOTERS will not only be electing a Member of Parliament for Harlow when they go to the polls today (Thursday). They will also be casting votes in the local council elections.

Twelve seats are up for grabs on Harlow Council - one in each of 10 of the town's 11 wards and two in Great Parndon because of a by-election caused by the resignation of Ukip councillor Terry Spooner.

At present the council is run by the Labour Party which holds 18 of the 33 seats. The Conservatives have 11 and Ukip three, with one vacant.

The votes will be counted at Harlow Leisurezone tomorrow (Friday) afternoon.

their hundreds for a better future".

"We've spoken to more than 30,000 residents in the last few months alone," she said. "I've met so many people who work hard and just want to do better for themselves and their families but who don't feel they were given a fair chance under the last government."

"We've seen over the last few years broken promises from the Tories on the NHS, immigration, VAT and tuition fees, but the next few years could be just as bad with the Tories planning to cut 10 per cent from school budgets. I won't support the cutting of school budgets, I'll vote to increase staff in the NHS, guarantee a GP appointment within 48 hours and I'll support a fair immigration system."

"The likelihood is this election will be very close. Only Labour can beat the Tories here, a vote for anyone else lets them in."

Mr Seeff said it was "abundantly clear" there would be no outright majority and voters had to decide who they would prefer to be partners in a future coalition.

"On every count that has to be the Liberal Democrats," he said. "Labour with the SNP would undermine the union and with their anti-austerity agenda will take the country back to the financial mess they left in 2010 while the Tories with the DUP and UKIP would produce an inward looking right wing government that will widen the gap between rich and poor."

"Every vote for a Liberal Democrat ensures that the widest range of interests will be represented and strengthens our hand in coalition negotiations."

Mr Stoppelcamp said Ukip favoured fair and equal immigration, would spend £3bn extra on the NHS, long-term goal to reduce taxes and hold a referendum on the UK's membership of the EU.

"I love this town and I have worked hard serving some of the most vulnerable in our community," he said. "My home is here and my children will grow up in this town. I am not of the political elite looking to further my career, I am standing to make a difference."

Polling stations open close at 10pm when the sealed ballot boxes will be taken to Harlow Leisurezone for the votes to be counted. The result is expected at 3am.

Emaciated horse was so weak she couldn't stand up

Abandoned mare left fighting for her life

gemma.gardner@hertsexnews.co.uk

ANIMAL welfare officers are appealing for information after an emaciated horse was found in a critical condition in Harlow.

When the red and white mare, who is now fighting for her life, was discovered in Canons Brook, Harlow, every bone in her body was visible.

She was so weak when she was found that she could not stand on her front legs and had collapsed.

She was found at around 8pm on Tuesday, April 14.

It is thought the horse, who has been named Lara, is about one year old. She weighs 161 kilograms, less than half the weight she should be.

She was rescued by a team including RSPCA officers, police, a vet, a vet nurse and yard manager from Catley Cross Veterinary Clinic in Halstead, where she is now being cared for.

Shocked

RSPCA inspector Sam Garvey said: "This was one of the worst cases I have ever seen. I was just utterly shocked when I saw Lara - she's just so thin that she's more or less a complete bag of bones."

"She was just crouched there on that hillside, terrified and trembling, chained to a piece of scrubland with no food or water."

"She was so weak when we found her that she was kneeling down to eat; and unable to walk properly because her feet are deformed from lack of care. She is also absolutely covered in sores because lice have caused her to rub herself so badly."

Carolyn Wyse, veterinary surgeon from Catley Cross said: "We are giving her the best of our care but it is touch and go at the moment."

"We named her Lara after Lara Croft because it was such a mission to find her on that dark hillside. Hopefully we can continue that mission to nurse her back to health."

The country is currently in the grip of a horse crisis with the RSPCA and other horse welfare charities struggling to cope with the numbers of abandoned, neglected and abused horses. The RSPCA alone has more than 600 horses in its care and receives more than 400 complaints relating to horse welfare every week.

BAG OF BONES: Lara is recovering at a veterinary clinic at Halstead

Charity reports a rise in animal cruelty

THE number of animal cruelty cases investigated by the RSPCA rose by 5.3 per cent in Essex.

The 4,862 incidents in the county last year were up 248 from 4,614 in 2013 while across the whole country the charity has seen cases rise for the second year in a row.

Paul Stilgoe, RSPCA superintendent for the south east, said: "Once again we have been shocked by just how vicious people can be to animals and it seems a large number of these cases are happening in this region."

"Many of the complaints we receive involve animals being neglected or not receiving the right care and often we can put that right by offering welfare advice. However, it is utterly unacceptable that people are still being deliberately cruel in what can be disturbingly inventive ways."

The five worst cases

Cruelty in the south east region, which includes Essex, included:

- An eight-week-old Jack Russell terrier puppy which was left in agonising pain with a raw wound after his tail was cut off.
- A cat held down in a bucket of water and drowned by her owner
- A dog named Ziggy who was found shot in the head with a 20-inch crossbow bolt
- A Yorkshire terrier who was caught on CCTV being suspended by the neck and beaten over the head several times
- Chilling mobile phone footage showed a teenager kicking a cat and brutally beating a dog

A Facebook appeal concerning Lara has already received an overwhelming response with many people asking how they can help. Those wanting to donate towards Lara's care should visit <https://campaign.justgiving.com/charity/rspcahq/savelara>

Any surplus funds will be used for the rescue and treatment of other equines in a similar situation.

Anyone with any information about how Lara came to be abandoned should call the RSPCA on 0300 123 8018.

Knife teen had 'problems with travellers'

A TEENAGER who was caught carrying a knife in Harlow claimed he was only doing so because of "problems with travellers".

On Friday (May 1) he was warned that courts "come down heavily" on knife crime but he was allowed to walk free.

Instead, the youth, who for legal reasons cannot be identified, was made the subject of an eight-month referral order under which he will meet with a panel of people who will draw up a programme of activities to keep him out of further trouble.

At Chelmsford Youth Court last week he pleaded guilty to having a bladed article, driving without insurance and without a licence.

As the hearing was about to start, a charge of taking and driving a motorcycle without the owner's consent was dropped by the prosecution without explanation.

The youth was stopped by police in School Lane, Harlow, on February 17 by police, who were suspicious because of his age.

Alex Graham, for the youth, told the court that he was carrying the knife because he had "problems with travellers".

Asked by chairman of the bench Susan Greenwood whether there was "still a problem with travellers", he agreed there was no need to worry any more.

In addition to the referral order, the court imposed six penalty points for the insurance offence and ordered the youth to pay £85 costs and a £15 victim surcharge.

Police chief sacks officer who failed to provide breath sample after crash

A POLICE officer working as part of the Harlow neighbourhood team has been dismissed from the force after being convicted of failing to provide a specimen of breath for analysis.

PC Rajinder Chana, 27, was sacked by Chief Constable Stephen Kavanagh following a fast-track disciplinary hearing on Friday which he failed to attend.

Chana, who had been a police officer for just over seven years, was off duty when he crashed his own car into a parked vehicle in Ilford in the early hours of Sunday, March 1.

Police were called and Chana was arrested after a failing a roadside breath test. He was taken to a police station in Ilford where he failed to provide a specimen of breath.

He subsequently pleaded guilty at Barkingside Magistrates Court to the offence and was banned from driving for 16 months.

Speaking after Friday's misconduct hearing, Mr Kavanagh said: "There is no place in Essex Police for officers who break the law. His levels of intoxication and his refusal to provide a specimen would alone bring discredit to the police service but he made the situation worse by behaving in a way that lacked basic standards of respect and courtesy."

"I find it hugely disappointing that an Essex police officer would have behaved in this way. He has let both his colleagues and the people of Essex down."

Inspector Paul Wells, of the Essex Police Professional Standards Department, said: "It was clear from the outset that Mr Chana's offending behaviour and aggressive approach had the potential to substantially undermine Essex Police to the public and to our police neighbours in the Met."

Chana has a right to appeal against his dismissal from the force.

Nurse's cash plea for quake victims

Colleagues at care home support appeal for help

William Mata

william.mata@hertsexnews.co.uk

A NEPALESE nurse is pleading with people to donate money to help those affected by the Gorkha earthquake which has killed more than 7,000 people in her home country.

Sabina Budhathoki, 27, has worked as a nurse at care home Alexandra House, in Hamstel Road, Harlow, since moving in November 2012 from Nepalese capital Kathmandu – a city severely affected by the earthquake.

She said: "I want to raise some money to help the earthquake victims with blankets medicine or whatever is most needed."

"I sent some of my own money to Nepal, but I've realised that I can't fundraise alone so I'm trying to raise money with the help of my sister Dibina and my colleagues."

Miss Budhathoki also has personal incentives to raise the money with her grandparents, aunt and uncle still living very near to the earthquake zone.

"It is very scary for them," she added, "My granddad hurt his arm when he tried to escape the earthquake."

"I don't really expect to raise a lot of money but I will be asking my colleagues, the care home residents and their families for their help."

"I will keep this going until Friday, when I will add some of my own money to what I have raised and send it off."

APPEAL: Sabina Budhathoki with care home colleague Jodie Robinson

While she isn't sure how much money she will be able to raise, Miss Budhathoki said that she won't be holding any special activity or event to fundraise as the donations should be made to the earthquake victims, and not to her.

Tracy Laft, care team manager at Alexandra House, said: "We think it's a good idea to be chipping in and we've been putting clothes into a bag to send over."

"We get on really well with Sabina and her family are out there. We don't mind how much we raise so long as we get something."

"The people out there have nothing from what I've seen on TV. I'm concerned they are not getting any fresh water."

Miss Budhathoki appealed for readers to support Nepal by making donations to Unicef or the Red Cross.

In brief

Masons' giveaway

THE Essex Air Ambulance was one of eight charities to share in the latest cash giveaway by the county's freemasons.

The Essex lodge handed out £130,000 which it raised during the course of just one weekend in June of last year.

Dozens of events were held throughout the county, including sponsored bike rides, abseiling and a host of social functions. However, the presentation of the cheques was delayed for almost a year because money kept coming in.

Other charities to benefit included the Helen Rollason Cancer Charity, Lifelites and TLC. The cheques were presented by the Provincial Grand Master for Essex, John Webb, during a ceremony in Southend.

Robbery charge

A TEENAGER has been charged with robbery following an incident in Harlow.

Police were called to the Oasis Hotel, in Hart Road, shortly before 4.30pm last Wednesday following reports a man waiting for a taxi had been threatened at knifepoint and robbed.

Blaze in bedroom

FIREFIGHTERS crews were called to a house in Moorfields, Harlow, on Saturday morning to extinguish a blaze which started in a bedroom.

Crews from Harlow and Bishop's Stortford were sent to the scene after the alarm was raised shortly before midday.

An investigation into the cause will be carried out.

Support for rotary club's water tower abseil shows no sign of dropping off

Gemma Gardner

gemma.gardner@hertsexnews.co.uk

SCORES of fundraisers reached new heights for charity when they took part in Harlow Tye Rotary Club's abseil.

Supporters of various local, regional, national and international charities climbed the 160ft-high Church Langley water tower and abseiled down to raise more than £43,000 for good causes.

The event, which is now in its eighteenth year, ran on Saturday and Sunday.

"It was a good event, a little down on last year but we put that down to the unpredictable weather conditions over the weekend," said Don Cramphorn of the club's abseil committee.

"Over the two days we had 187 abseilers who have pledged a fantastic amount of money and lots more supporters cheering the abseilers on."

He added: "Our club ladies are also very pleased as they have been able to raise over £700 by selling refreshments and cakes during the two days."

David Annettes, chairman of the abseil committee, said: "The abseil went extremely well and we were pleased with the support from the public and those who took part."

Mr Annettes praised outdoor pursuits charity Dukes Barn, who for the 14th year co-ordinated the abseil, and Affinity Water for their support.

In the 18 years since it started the abseil has raised more than £800,000 for worthy causes.

TWO days of monster truck madness, motorcycle stunts and urban sports entertained thousands at North Weald Airfield.

For the second year running the Extreme Torque Show rolled into town on Sunday and Monday. With attractions spread across three arenas, there was something for everyone to enjoy.

The very best in BMX skills and parkour was showcased in the urban arena, with talented young riders showing off their tricks.

Over in the extreme arena, Two Brothers

Racing and Lee Bowers demonstrated tricks such as wheelies and burnouts. They were joined by the Extreme FMX team, who defied gravity by flying through the air displaying cliffhangers, nac nacs and supermans.

But stealing the show in the torque arena were the giants of the show – monster trucks Extreme and Lil' Devil. With 1,500 horse power and crushing everything in their path, these two green and red monsters pulled in the biggest crowds.

■ The Extreme Stunt Show returns to Essex next month with shows at Harlow Town Park on June 4 and Hylands Park in Chelmsford on June 5.

Retirement home given spring clean

PUPILS from Longwood Academy teamed up with Moat Housing Association to hold a spring event for residents of retirement home Gladden Court.

The six students from the Paringdon Road primary school worked with residents in planting wild flowers from seed kits donated by Grow Wild and National Lottery funding.

Staff from Moat dedicated time to clearing rubbish, doing minor repairs and putting together brand-new outdoor furniture for residents to enjoy.

The Longwood pupils were presented with certificates by Robert Halfon and each received a plant to take home – donated personally by Gladden Court residents.

Grand effort helps three good causes

FUNDRAISING primary school pupils this week presented a share of £1,125 to three charities after a week of fun events.

All seven year groups at Fawbert and Barnard's Primary School in London Road, Harlow, were involved in Helping Hands week from Thursday, February 5 to Friday, February 13, to gain an awareness of charities and those in different circumstances.

Students put on short productions, took part in a fun run and sponsored swim and made products to sell to parents and visitors to raise money for No Child Without, Accuro and the RSPCA.

DONATIONS: Fawbert and Barnard Primary pupils hand out cheques

Each of the charities was presented with a cheque for £375 at the assembly on Wednesday, April 29.

Christine Baxter, school bursar, said: "The children held a charity week to teach them about being generous. They did a number of activities and events and chose the charities themselves. They wanted to help two local charities and an animal charity.

"I think the children were very excited with the assembly and I think they learned how important it is to help the less fortunate."

It's choux time during big pastry showdown

HARLOW College students battled it out against counterparts from Hertford Regional College in the first ever inter-college bake-off.

Josh Tooley and Katy Bonello, professional cookery students from Harlow College, scooped the top prize in a close competition of a high standard.

The pair successfully delivered on a brief to make one choux-filled product, one gelatine-based product and one product made from sponge.

Challenged

The competition took place at Atrium, Hertford College's own restaurant in Broxbourne, and the two pairs of students from both colleges were challenged to make three testing dishes.

Their prize, after seeing off competition from professional food and beverage service students from Hertford Regional, was a week's work experience with classy patisserie Belgique.

Rebecca Payne and Sam Ortiz, students at Harlow College, came in fourth place.

Meanwhile, Harlow College's hair and beauty team held their annual little princess and prince fundraiser on Tuesday, April 20, to raise nearly £100 for the Little Princess Trust.

Organised by Level 4 hair and beauty students, the fundraiser encouraged Harlow schoolchildren to get their hair and nails done by the students.

TREATED LIKE PRINCESSES: Girls at Harlow College's fundraiser

SWEET SUCCESS: Patisserie contest prizewinners

All donations from the day of papering went to the trust, which gives real hair wigs to children who have lost their hair through cancer.

Jenna Wolff, salon management student, said: "The charity event we held was very successful, it was lovely to see mums and children turn up for a great cause.

"The Little Princess Trust is a brilliant charity to raise money for as it helps patients with hair loss by creating wigs and I am really pleased that we could contribute to this.

"I think being involved in the organisation of the event has been a really good experience and has given me an insight to what managing a team of staff in a salon could be like."

Couple raise £300 for hospital where Freshwaters pupil was treated

Alfie's parents repay medics for saving him

William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

THE parents of a Freshwaters Academy pupil have raised £300 for the hospital that helped save their six-year-old son's life.

Year 1 pupil Alfie Hunt was found to have an enlarged heart and liver when he was just two weeks old. He was diagnosed with critical aortic valve stenosis – a narrowing of the aortic valve – and had been in and out of hospital for much of his life.

Faulty

Last summer Alfie underwent open heart surgery to replace the faulty valve. He was in hospital for five days to have the surgery and off school for just three weeks.

The replacement should last him eight to 10 years after which it will be replaced with an adult valve.

Alfie, who lives with his mum

For breaking news from across your area

harlowstar.co.uk

Cheryl and dad Mark, twin sister Grace and four older brothers, is now as lively as any other six-year-old.

Mrs Hunt said she first became worried about Alfie when he became grey and floppy at just two weeks old and was rushed to hospital.

She said: "The doctors were so calm, I was pretty laid back when they told us what was wrong; I didn't take it in. They said we would need to go to the Royal Brompton Hospital and I assumed they meant as a follow-up appointment with the heart specialists."

"It wasn't until the children's acute transport service arrived and started working quickly to transfer Alfie, I realised how bad the situation was.

Mr Hunt added: "Alfie's arteries were rapidly closing and he had a diseased heart valve. He had a balloon inserted through his groin to his heart to stretch the aorta. He also almost lost his bowel as it had not been getting enough oxygen or blood."

Actions

"Alfie is only here today because of the quick actions of the Royal Brompton."

Alongside the Freshwaters governing parent body Parent, Champions, Mr and Mrs Hunt held a coffee morning to raise £272.10 for Royal Brompton hospital.

Head of school Marios Solomones said: "Anyone who helps our pupils in any way deserves our support and that is why our coffee morning was in aid of the Royal Brompton Hospital. It also highlights to our pupils the wonderful work doctors and nurses do day in and day out."

GRATEFUL: Alfie Hunt, who needed open heart surgery, with his twin sister Grace and parents Mark and Cheryl

Trust earns praise after lifting GCSE standards

AN academy trust that looks after five schools in Harlow has been recognised for its work on student progress at GCSE.

Burnt Mill Co-operative Academy Trust was honoured by SSAT, the Schools, Students and Teachers Network, which used Department of Education data to identify the state-funded schools making improvements.

As a result, the trust has qualified for a SSAT Educational Outcomes Award by being in the top ten per cent of schools nationally for progress made by pupils between their key stage 2 results at primary school and their GCSE results at age 16.

Award

Representatives from the trust have been invited to receive the award at a regional celebration ceremony hosted by SSAT at Parkside Community College, in Cambridge, on May 7.

The trust looks after Freshwaters Primary Academy, Roydon Primary, Cook Spinney Primary and Little Parndon Primary, Burnt Mill Academy and Forest Hall Academy in Stansted. Sue Williamson, chief executive of SSAT, said: "Burnt Mill Co-operative Academy Trust should be congratulated for their exceptional achievement. They have proved themselves to be leading the field in improving GCSE outcomes for their students."

Sport can improve self-esteem and teach important life skills

gemma.gardner@hertssexnews.co.uk

CASEY Stoney was lucky enough to captain Team GB at the London 2012 Olympics where the women's matches drew bigger crowds than those of the men.

Despite this, talented female athletes still face a struggle to be recognised and rewarded for their ability.

"Women's sport makes up just two per cent of all sports coverage in the UK. It's a shocking statistic, but I hope it's something that can change over time," Casey, who lives in Old Harlow, told the Star.

Huge

"There is an appetite for the game and in some countries women's football is huge."

The 32-year-old defender has been capped more than 100 times for England women's football team and currently plays for Arsenal at club level.

Casey said: "There has already been a huge increase in the number of girls' grassroots teams across the UK over the past 10 years."

"Crowds have increased 100 per cent in the last year alone, which shows you it's moving in the right direction."

Last week mum-of-two Casey, along with Coleen Rooney - wife of footballer Wayne Rooney, launched McDonald's Football Mum of the Year Award which recognises extraordinary mums, who go the extra mile and dedicate countless hours of their time to the little football players in their lives.

"There are so many mums who help to run their child's club or volunteer at the clubhouse to help raise funds so the kids can play. It's so important to recognise them when you consider that they're also often juggling childcare and work on top," said Casey, whose own mum worked three jobs to pay for her to train.

She added: "For young girls in particular, sport can improve their self-esteem and confidence, teach them important life skills and keep them healthy and active. It's also a great way to make new friends, whether it's the kids on the pitch or their parents watching on."

In her personal life, Casey and partner, former Lincoln Ladies player Megan Harris, welcomed twins Teddy and Tilly last November and the family are settled into life in the old town.

Juggling

While Megan is a stay-at-home mum, Casey goes out to work for Arsenal Ladies and England Women as well juggling an increasing number of ambassadorial roles.

Casey takes son Teddy and daughter Tilly as her driving force.

"I want to make them proud, and I go out every day with that motivation now," she said.

"I've always been a hard worker with regard to my game but I just

Family star in new TV home show

A COUPLE torn between moving house or spending thousands of pounds to give their Harlow home a much-needed facelift were featured in this week's episode of property gurus Kirstie Allsopp and Phil Spencer's latest TV show.

Viewers saw Nigel and Emma Forde weighing up their options in the Channel 4 show Kirstie and Phil's Love It Or List It, screened on Tuesday evening.

The couple, who have three young sons, had to decide whether they wanted to stay put in their current home of eight years or sell up and find a new place to live.

Mr Forde was keen to move while his wife wanted to remain in their large family home with its big garden. In the show it was left to Phil to persuade the couple to make a new start somewhere else while Kirstie favoured renovation.

ON SCREEN: Phil Spencer and Kirstie Allsopp in the kitchen at the home of Harlow couple Nigel and Emma Forde, pictured top

The programme followed the Fordes as they were shown three different houses – in Little Dunmow, Harlow and Braintree – while workmen undertook £28,000 worth of building work which saw their home get a new kitchen/diner, bathroom and living room. At the end of the show they were asked whether they wanted to stay or move.

To find out their decision, you can watch a repeat of the show on 4seven on Saturday at 8pm or on the channel's On Demand service.

Parents offered an alternative to payday lenders

Credit union advertising in town schools

Gemma Gardner

gemma.gardner@hertsexnews.co.uk

SCHOOLS in Harlow which hold proms for their students are being approached to advertise credit union loans for families facing the burden of buying formal wear.

Credit union Harlowsave has asked secondary schools to advertise its services to parents in a bid to provide access to loans for prom suits and dresses, circumventing the need to go to a payday loan company.

Interest rates offered by credit unions – not-for-profit co-operatives that offer financial services – are a maximum of 42.6 per cent a year while some payday loan companies can charge an APR of up to 1,509 per cent.

Harlowsave says it is advertising the loans in St Mark's Catholic School and Burnt Mill Academy.

A HarlowSave spokesman said: "We are offering affordable loan products and financial services that can help people who may be experiencing financial difficulties."

"By advertising our products and services we can not only help people but can offer them loans at much lower interest rates than those charged by certain high street and national loan providers as well as keeping them away from loan sharks."

With up to 85 per cent of schools now celebrating end of school proms, parents can face financial pressure as they face paying for outfits, sometimes costing up to £300.

Helena Mills, head of Burnt Mill Academy Trust, said: "We are aware proms are expensive and do all we can to support. We expect our students to work hard and we show them that hard work pays so our Year 11 reward system enables students to earn points towards their prom ticket and even costs.

"We have vouchers as rewards which can be used in clothes shops."

"We also try to reiterate to our students that they shouldn't go mad and that boys should buy suits that can then be worn for sixth form, something I did for my own sons. And as a mother with a daughter I know a girl's prom dress doesn't have to cost a lot."

"I did once suggest not having a prom to our community and just about survived so I will do all I can to help families afford something I know they want."

TEA AND CAKE: Lisa Mahoney with Betty and Joyce at the Leah Manning Centre in Harlow

Exciting times for Age Concern as charity moves into new premises

THE Harlow branch of the charity Age Concern has moved to new premises at the Leah Manning Centre.

The new hub in Park Lane, Harlow, will run the twice-weekly friendship clubs and will now also play host to a range of new services including lessons in using the internet and craft sessions.

Moving from its previous base at Wych Elm has allowed the charity to operate under one roof.

Chief officer Lisa Mahoney said: "The move has been wonderful and it is a beautiful new venue here.

"We are now looking to develop an exciting new project."

She added: "We are desperate for volunteers to help make our new projects possible. We need people to help with both the IT classes and friendship sessions."

For information about becoming a member or a volunteer call Lisa on (01279) 415553 or email lisaageconcern@btinternet.com.

Hall switches on to solar savings

Roof panels will power lights and appliances

Michael Jarvis

star@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A PROJECT to turn Sawbridgeworth Memorial Hall into an electricity generator has gone live.

The £25,000 initiative, which is being funded by the Friends of the Memorial Hall, will see the building's lights and electrical appliances powered by sunlight.

Some 60 solar panels placed on the south-facing roof should generate 15,558kW hours of electricity annually, equivalent to the power required for at least six homes.

As well as powering the hall, the new panels will also feed additional electricity to the National Grid.

It is expected to raise more than £3,200 a year for the next 20 years through export payments and the Government's feed-in tariff scheme.

The panels were installed by a team from Viking Solar Limited, based in Sheering Mill Lane.

Company director John Furnace said: "We are thrilled to be involved in such a super renewable energy scheme at the heart of the Sawbridgeworth community, helping the town to become greener and providing a source of income to aid the long-term sustainability of the hall."

"The project to turn Sawbridgeworth Memorial Hall into an electricity generator is a real achievement and all credit should go to the trustees who initiated the project and especially Peter Lee who has led it."

POWERING UP: Solar panels have been installed on the memorial hall roof

Mr Lee said: "The Sawbridgeworth Memorial Hall Trust selected Viking Solar based on their knowledge, competitive price and the trust ethos of, where possible, spending locally raised money on local businesses."

"The work has been professionally completed on time and on budget, just in time to catch the recent sunny days."

Mr Lee said the hall was rapidly becoming a key community centre for the town, with new activities aimed at all ages, including table tennis, line dancing, petanque and indoor bowls.

LUSITANIA: THE FLOATING PALACE

Harlow Playhouse

Thursday, May 7 (2pm & 7.30pm)
£9-£14

The sinking of Lusitania was one of the most horrific incidents at sea during the First World War. The ocean liner was sailing from New York with 1,962 people on board when, on May 7, 1915, she was torpedoed by a German U-boat off the coast of southern Ireland. It caused an international outrage and there were riots in Liverpool and London. The German government claimed the Lusitania was carrying military supplies but Britain and America declared the sinking unlawful. It devastated the tight-knit dockland communities in north Liverpool, where most of Lusitania's crew lived. Harlow-based inclusive drama group Razed Roof has worked with National Theatre playwright Judith Johnson to develop the script while musician Pat Crilly has written the music and lyrics for this production which will be staged on the 100th anniversary of the tragedy.

Join the team and the voiceover from above (X Factor's Peter Dickson) as they take you on an adventure using demonstrations and a few loud bangs to lead the way.

Perfect party band

DESCRIBED by music bible NME as the best 70s glam rock band to have existed since, well... the 70s, Giudà will be bringing their mix of anthemic glam and punchy punk to The Square.

The Italian five piece will take you back to that iconic era of glam rock, the grimy London party scene of the late 70s, taking a solid proto-punk foundation and fusing it with glitter injected, pub rock classics.

Their debut album Racey Roller has become a surprising underground sensation, with five star reviews from publications as diverse as Mojo, Rolling Stone and Maximum Rock'n'Roll.

Mojo magazine called it: "An Anglophile, detail-attentive timeslip back to era of fat tube amps, handclaps and heys!"

Their energetic performances have been winning fans throughout the world of music, Phil King of the Jesus And Mary Chain said: "Their performance transported me back to the heady days of watching punk groups play in the back rooms of dodgy London pubs in 1977."

The perfect party band, loud tight and concise, Giudà play

The Square on Friday, May 15. Support for the glam-rock revivalists comes from popular London power-pop band Los Pepes, featuring Adam Smith of SquareOne Entertainment on bass, and punk band Scraps making their debut in Harlow.

Tickets for the show cost £8 in advance and £9 on the door.

■ For more information and tickets call (01279) 305000.

Getting into the swing of the 1940s

HARLOW Playhouse is going back to the 1940s, with music from the Sinatra Guys and the G.I. Jane's on Friday, May 15.

Classic hits from America's past will be performed by West End singers, who have taken on lead roles in shows including The Phantom of the Opera, Les Miserables, Miss Saigon and Beauty and the Beast.

Look out for Come Fly with Me, New York New York and My Way as the singers get into the groove for a fun-filled evening not to be missed.

This will be the first time the Soprano Bella and Katrina Murphy produced show has come to The Playhouse, and the performances are renowned for doing justice to the Rat Pack talent.

■ Tickets are on sale from £17.50-£19.50 and doors open from 7.45pm. For more information call The Playhouse box office on: 01279 431945.

THE APPLIANCE of science

MINISTRY of Science Live will be exploding onto The Playhouse stage on Wednesday, May 13, with live experiments and amazing reactions.

The show combines education and entertainment with audience participation and is aimed at 7-15 year olds.

Presenter Mike Gobel said: "We want inspire children at a young age to be enthused by science."

"However, the style of the show is slick, fun, and full of action so it gets good feedback from the adults as it brings out the big kid in them."

"The starting point of everything in the show is always the science. Then we find a way of presenting it that's clear, engaging and enjoyable. I present the show with a girl called Emma Blackwell and we have a lot of fun working together and hopefully that comes across to the audience as well."

The show is jam packed with science and history and includes a fully operational hovercraft, massive cannons and a pedal power push bike that makes smoothies.

It demonstrates real science by educating the audience with not only how the experiments work, but how they were discovered or invented. A science consultant has checked the script thoroughly to ensure all content is correct.

The audience experience everything from liquid nitrogen flowers to hydrogen bottle rockets, Buzz Aldrin to Virgin Galactic, cat food tins to hovercraft and methane to the invention of the battery.

The stage show is an engaging, interactive experience that explores energy and engineering using brilliantly designed demonstrations and historical references as a narrative. It combines stimulating live entertainment with the world of education the show aims to inspire and educate young people through the medium of live theatre.

Get ready to rock as LinkFest returns

THE first of this year's LinkFest events will take place on Sunday, May 31 and local favourites Repertoire Dogs will be returning to the stage as headliners, marking their fourth year performing at the event.

The five-piece will take to the bandstand at 6.30pm to headline the Town Park event.

Lead guitarist Kris Ambrose said: "It's a really popular event, with a good turn out and a nice atmosphere. It's a great day for the whole community, and it's free."

Having built up a solid reputation on the pub circuit, Repertoire Dogs play rock, pop and indie covers, with a Brit band and Mod influence.

The line-up has changed extensively over fifteen years of gigging, but Kris hopes the current incarnation is to stay.

"We've got a good line up now and everyone gets on with each other, no band politics, so hopefully that's it."

The band are passionate about keeping their set fresh with new songs added constantly. They are looking forward to unleashing a new set list at the show.

"We've played every year since it's been going so it's great to be back for the fourth year to headline. It should be a really good day for everyone involved."

Harlow Linkfest is completely free and this year will feature acts including Expose, Sax on Fire and Steve Forward.

The re-formatted event will be held over three Sundays throughout summer, with the other dates being July 26 and August 30.

Event organiser Jamie Pring said: "Preparations are going really well, the organisation side has been ready to rock for some time now.

"It's more about hoping now that the council have done their bit and are ready for us, but I'm really looking forward to it."

Jamie added that the Repertoire Dogs will be one of the evenings headliners, and the earlier stage time of 6.30pm would take into account those who had work the following day.

He added: "We have had The Dogs every year now and they are one of the top bands in town. They cover pretty much anybody."

Museum of Harlow, Muskhams Road, Harlow

Architect Christine Manley is at the Museum of Harlow to talk about the astonishing achievements of Sir Frederick Gibberd, widely acknowledged as one of the major architects of the 20th century. It is nearly 70 years since Sir Frederick was appointed master planner for the new town of Harlow, a brave venture in large-scale postwar urban planning. Ms Manley's talk will include illustrations of the scope, scale and variety of his commissions. Her research for a book about Sir Frederick demonstrates that he was at the forefront of a distinctly English form of modern architecture and planning. She has lectured and written for the 20th century society about his influence. For more information, contact Mag Barrett on (01279) 429134 or email barrett.mag@gmail.com.

WORTH A WATCH

UP CLOSE: Ragged tooth sharks off North Carolina

Shark

DOCUMENTARY BBC1 Thursday, May 7, 8.55pm

The Beeb's latest Big Natural History Show looks at one of the world's most feared and least understood predators. We know about great whites and maybe some others, like tigers and reef sharks, but this three-part series lifts the lid on less-familiar species, like the horrifying goblin shark, whose jaws extend like something out of Alien as it closes in on its prey. Or there's the turbo-charged mako shark that can swim at speeds of up to 46mph, the Greenland shark that is believed to live to 200 years old and the nightmarish but amusingly named tasselled wobbegong. If you thought you knew a lot about sharks, you'll think again after watching this mesmerising show.

POLITICS CHANNEL 4 Thursday, May 7, 9pm

The first shock of election night is Jeremy Paxman's defection to Channel 4 for this alternative take on the politics, personalities and percentages of the big vote. He may have left Newsnight last year but it always seemed likely the great inquisitor would return to the BBC for big events like this. Instead, he's jumped ship to join David Mitchell in hosting Channel 4's rather different take on proceedings, with Kayvan Novak and Richard Osman also giving their take on things.

After 10 series on TV, hit spy drama Spooks is coming to the big screen. Peter Firth, whose Harry Pearce character is one of the few to survive, tells Albertina Lloyd that the transition had always been on the cards

So many major characters were killed off during the nine-and-a-half years that Spooks was on television, that Harry Pearce, head of the counter terrorism department at MI5, was pretty fortunate to still be standing by the end.

In fact, he was practically the only member of his team left. During its 10 series, many of the BBC drama's stars were bumped off, including the characters played by Rupert Penry-Jones, Hermione Norris, Miranda Raison, Richard Armitage and David Oyelowo.

Peter Firth, who reprises his role as Harry for the big screen version – Spooks: The Greater Good – thinks that the dangerous theme, where nobody was safe, played a key part in the success of the series, which garnered a string of Bafta nominations and wins during its run.

"It had never been done in television. Nobody had ever had the idea of establishing heroes, and then killing them off on a regular basis," explains the Bradford-born actor.

"And when we did it the first time in the second episode with Lisa Faulkner, and plunged her head into a deep-fat fryer, the reaction was so extraordinary, it became clear that it was a very powerful dramatic tool.

"What it meant for the viewers was that all bets were off. If you had an investment in a character and they were in trouble – they were really in trouble, so you'd better watch, and that led to people being fascinated by the show."

The drama came to an explosive end in 2011, however. Harry, one of the last men standing, was still in charge of the team, dubbed The Grid – so when it was confirmed that a spin-off film would be coming out, fans would surely have been up-in-arms had Firth not been on board.

Waiting in line to discuss the film with the 61-year-old is almost as nerve-racking as being interrogated by MI5.

But, in real life, he is nothing like the super-serious authority figure he plays.

He's actually an extremely jolly fellow, who leaps up from his seat to greet me warmly as I enter the room, and is as funny as he is friendly.

Playing Harry again after three years was, quite literally, like putting on an old pair of shoes, he insists.

"I wore the same shoes for 15 years. I bought them in [London's] Jermyn Street, a good pair of brogues, and as soon as I got them on for the film, there it was – job done, back in the groove."

Spooks: The Greater Good also stars Game Of Thrones heart-throb Kit Harington as The Grid's newest recruit Will Holloway, who is called upon to investigate Harry's mysterious disappearance in the midst of an impending terrorist attack on London.

Directed by Bharat Nalluri, who also worked on the TV series, a film was always on the cards, right from day one, says

Firth.

"It always wanted to be a film. The scale of the series was much bigger than normal TV drama, it always had aspiration to make it to the big screen," explains the father-of-four.

"So we took the DNA of the original TV show and just put it in a much bigger frame, with better, more exotic locations, more fabulous stars. So it was a natural progression. I wasn't surprised, I was just delighted."

Firth describes it as "believable, but still cinematic and sexy", and filming on location in London meant there was plenty of exciting action for the cast and crew too.

"We don't have any control over the streets, so we did a lot of guerrilla filming," explains Firth. "We'd hide cameras on rooftops and in windows of buildings, and I'd be hooked up with sound, which looked like part of the spy equipment anyway, and get instructions.

"And we'd film scenes in busy streets, with people completely unaware we were doing that. It's a great way to work, quite exciting."

It went smoothly, most of the time – apart from when a fan spotted Firth in the middle of a scene and interrupted to ask when the film would be coming out.

Playing a spy in a big-screen thriller at the age of 61 means the actor ranks in the league of older action stars currently storming the box office, alongside Liam Neeson, Sean Penn and Sylvester Stallone.

Firth is not sure if he likes being put in the same category as Stallone, though.

"I haven't had quite as much work as he has," he exclaims with a laugh. "Perhaps I should!" But he admits he's happy to embrace the tag.

"Hey, we're all living longer. There's no age limit on being fabulous!"

■ Spooks: The Greater Good is released in cinemas on Friday, May 8.

TV spies make move to big screen

Spooks: The Greater Good

THRILLER: (15) 104 minutes

DURING a nine-year run on BBC One, Spooks thrilled viewers with the morally-conflicted escapades of members of Section D of MI5, including one gruesome death sequence involving a deep fat fryer that sparked a deluge of complaints.

The show concluded in 2011 with the death of a pivotal character, effectively bringing down the curtain on the high-stakes spy game.

After four years in dramatic limbo, familiar faces return in this glossy big-screen mission penned by Jonathan Brackley and Sam Vincent, who co-wrote the majority of episodes of the final two series.

There's a comforting air of familiarity about this Bourne Identity-style caper that serves as a reboot of the franchise and wedges the door ajar for further assignments, presuming lead actor Kit Harrington can be wooed away from Game Of Thrones.

Director Bharat Nalluri, who was closely associated with the TV version, maintains a brisk pace and orchestrates a couple of nail-biting action sequences.

Sir Harry Pearce (Peter Firth), Head of Counter-Terrorism at MI5, oversees the handover of terrorist Qasim (Elyes Gabel) to the CIA.

The transfer, via the traffic-clogged roads of London, reaches a standoff when Qasim's gun-toting henchmen attack the police escort.

Harry makes the bold decision to avoid bloodshed by releasing the prisoner.

Qasim narrowly escapes a subsequent pursuit by MI5 agent June Keaton (Tuppence Middleton) and her partner.

Soon after, Harry vanishes without trace, shouldering the blame for the debacle.

"I had to find someone I can trust: it's a short list," Harry informs protege Will when they eventually meet.

With the clock ticking before Qasim detonates a dirty bomb in the heart of London, Will attempts to navigate a web of intrigue, some of it spun by Harry, aided by fellow agent Erin Watts (Lara Pulver).

Spooks: The Greater Good references tragic events from the final episode of the TV series and reopens old wounds to cast doubt on the ulterior motives of some of the key players.

Fans will savour these gossamer thin ties to the past but Nalluri's picture works well as a stand-alone feature for the uninitiated.

As Harry reminds his protege, "You can do good or you can do well. Sooner or later, they make you choose."

FOOD, GLORIOUS FOOD!

Meet some of the wonderful exhibitors at this year's festival

The Food Company, Marks Tey

The concept behind The Food Company is a very simple one, we are passionate about food. That passion has never waned since we first opened our doors 15 years ago and we are still proud to be known as East Anglia's finest food hall.

From fresh meat, fish, cheese, bread and patisserie, to cooked food, wine and confectionary, The Food Company at Marks Tey is the place to go when you want great food from people who care.

Founded in 2000 and situated just outside Colchester, The Food Company provides an extensive range of specialist foods alongside locally-grown and produced goods, as well as an unrivalled range of luxury home wares and designer furniture from names such as Fatboy and Alessi.

Downstairs in the main food hall, all our counters are run in-house by staff who each excel in their own particular field. Our master butcher offers free range Blythburgh pork, local free range chicken, the best in beef and lamb as well as rare breeds and game.

At the fishmonger's counter you will find a fantastic selection, with over 30 different varieties of seasonal fish along with lovely lobsters and Mersea oysters.

Our cake and patisserie counter sells out daily with a mouth watering array of desserts and dinner party favourites.

When the talented chefs in our restaurant need fresh ingredients, they don't have far to go. Our sought-after breakfasts and delicious lunches are prepared with the same high quality produce being sold on the shop floor, ensuring our customers are always served the best.

Our free wifi is popular with commuters preparing for meetings, and our relaxing, informal atmosphere means you can either finish that report, or simply enjoy a relaxing coffee and cake with friends.

The Only Way Is Local at your Chelmsford Star Co-op

Chelmsford Star Co-operative Society has been trading in Essex since 1867 and has always been a big player in the locality. It still is today with 31p of every £1 spent in store retained in the local economy.

This comes from the Society employing more than 800 local people, paying out a share of its profits annually to over 20,000 active members and supporting local businesses from trades people to local food and drink producers.

After a review of the Essex food and drink market in early 2013, the Society noted a general lack of awareness and promotion of produce from the county as a whole.

As a result, it was decided that as the region had such a rich heritage of food and drink production that the Society should actively take on the role to sell and promote Essex producers.

So, in July 2013, it launched The Only Way Is Local, Support Your Essex Producer campaign in its quadrant department store in Chelmsford and invited 20 of its local producers to take a stand and promote their goods with tastings.

Since then the Society has more than doubled its local producer portfolio all of which are featured on its website at www.chelmsfordstar.coop/food/

local-food-made-essex.

In July 2013, the Society supported 12 of its producers by becoming a sponsor at the Essex Food and Drink Essex Festival with an 'Only Way Is Local' branded marquee to showcase their produce.

This was a huge success, so much so that all suppliers signed up there and then to repeat in 2015.

This year the marquee will feature 22 stands, enabling the public to see an even greater selection of the high quality food and drink produced in Essex.

Vanessa Howard of Chelmsford Star Co-operative commented:

"The Essex Food and Drink Festival was an excellent platform to enable us to showcase the best of Essex.

"What was particularly gratifying was that everyone that attended the festival were true foodies and their appreciation of our Essex producers showed in sales as a number of our suppliers sold out early.

"They won't be caught out again this year!"

WHAT'S ON

New sound DAYS OUT CODE man

ESSEX-born musician Martin Gore is a founding member of Depeche Mode. His second solo album, MG, is out now.

He chats to GO! about working a lot, working alone and working towards a new sound.

YOU'RE HAVING A DAY AT HOME TODAY?
Yes, I'm in Santa Barbara, and I will likely be going to the studio later.

'LIKELY'?
OK, definitely. I go to my studio every day. Every single day.

EVEN THOUGH YOU'VE JUST FINISHED AN ALBUM?

Yes. Maybe there's a bit of a workaholic in me, though I'm not going in to really work as such, I'm more playing around. And while I'm playing around I might come up with something, an idea that I go on to use.

IS IT YOUR EQUIVALENT OF HAVING AN ALLOTMENT OR A SHED?
I suppose it is, really.

DO YOU HAVE ANY AIM AT ALL WHEN YOU GO IN TO THE STUDIO?

I don't at the moment, but I'm starting to get to the point where I want to write some songs again. I haven't written anything in a while.

YOU MUST HAVE LOADS OF MUSIC RECORDED?

I don't, actually. I'm a very good editor and I bin most of what I make. I don't have vaults and vaults of music sitting there. I know what happens to people like Bob Marley when they die, and unfinished songs are released forever. If I'm working on something and I think it's no good, it gets destroyed very carefully.

WHEN DID YOU WRITE YOUR NEW ALBUM, MG?

I wrote a few instrumentals during the process of making the last Depeche Mode album. And we ended up not using them because we had way too many songs. These days Dave [Gahan] and I write songs for Depeche Mode, so we had a huge amount of material. I thought it would be a good idea to carry on writing instrumentals with the goal of writing a whole album. But then Depeche Mode went on tour, and we finished last March, so I got cracking again after that and carried on writing instrumentals.

DID YOU THINK YOU'D MAKE A SOLO ALBUM?

I made one before with Vince Clarke when we had a break in Depeche Mode albums, and I was keen to do something again. I like the idea of MG being an album in the truest sense, and I really wanted to get involved in the artwork and everything to do with it. I want to think of it as a piece of art, and I love the resurgence in vinyl, which lends itself to that idea too, that it's a piece of art.

WERE YOU INSPIRED BY ANY INSTRUMENTAL ALBUMS YOURSELF?

I don't normally do that, you know, get another album in my head that I want to sound like or be inspired by. I know people do that, but it's not the way I work. There are of course instrumental electronic albums that I love, the pinnacle being the two Selected Ambient Works albums by Aphex Twin – those for me were just so influential. Not that my new album is anything like those. I've been getting into sci-fi soundtracks, too, after showing my 12-year-old son Blade Runner for the first time and I think some of the album has a sci-fi feel to it. That's probably just in the instrumentation.

DO YOU ENJOY WORKING ON YOUR OWN?

It's something that I've done for a long time, even when I write for the band. It's only when we decide on when we're recording that I work with other people. And I probably enjoy that more, the recording with the band and a producer, but I've always seen songwriting as a solitary thing. I want to do it alone.

WILL YOU TOUR THIS ALBUM?

I just don't see how I could, really. I don't think I will. Maybe I could get some great film together to make a visual extravaganza.

NOW AND THEN: Martin Gore in publicity shots for his new album and, inset, the familiar, big-haired look of the 1980s with Depeche Mode.

TESTED Volvo V40

Jonathan Crouch

As with most things in life, the best products take what seems a complicated bunch of requirements and reduce them to something very simple and elegant.

The Volvo V40 is just such a car. The Swedish company has built a premium five-door family hatch that looks great, drives well, makes sense on the balance sheet and which has an amazing amount of safety equipment built into it. It really is as good as it looks, especially now that Volvo offers the option of its own highly efficient engines beneath the bonnet.

Traditionally, Volvos have been better when they've been bigger. It's not that the Swedish brand hasn't tried its hardest with compact, more affordable models. On the contrary, it has a heritage in such designs stretching all the way back to the PV51 of 1936.

None though has been what you'd call desirable, unless for you, desire is a virtue that's safe, solid and sensible. Here though, is a car that is. The V40 premium family hatch, launched here in the summer of 2012.

Despite the 'V' designation, traditionally used by the brand to reference estate cars, this is a Focus-sized family hatch – but a rather posh one, aimed at the top end of this segment where you'll find premium models like BMW's 1 Series, Audi's A3 and the Mercedes A-Class. Its job is to take on these elite rivals, a task now made easier by the introduction of two engines from Volvo's efficient 'Drive-E' 2.0-litre range, a petrol and a diesel.

Here's a hatch clearly developed by people who care about driving and it delivers a very good compromise indeed of absorbent ride and assured handling composure. So much so that I've begun to question the 'less is more' mantra I tend to apply to the brand's other models when it comes to engine output.

There's not much point in having loads of power in a car that handles like a pudding. This one though, can cope with a bit more, which is why it's worth opting for the fastest of the three diesel engines on offer, the 190bhp D4. Like the next diesel down, the 150bhp D3, it's a 2.0-litre unit but unlike that engine, this is Volvo's own impressive 'Drive-E' powerplant. Amazingly, it's nearly as efficient as the much less powerful entry-level diesel in the range, the 115bhp D2. And that variant's a lot slower than the D4: a D2 V40 gets to 62mph in 11.7s en route to 118mph.

Low mileage buyers need to factor in the possibility of petrol power too, especially if they don't like the rather clattery diesel noise you get on start-up.

T2, T3 and T4 variants use a 1.6-litre four cylinder unit, respectively putting out either 120, 150 or 180bhp, the most powerful version of which is good for 60 in 7.3s on the way to 140mph. If that's not enough, there's a flagship 2.0-litre five cylinder T5 model that also uses a Volvo-sourced 'Drive-E' engine, putting out 245bhp and fitted as standard with an eight-speed automatic gearbox.

The safer a car is, the safer will be its approach to exterior design. That was once true of small Volvos – but it isn't any more. In fact, it's precisely because this V40 is good in an accident that it looks so smart. Let me explain.

Almost all cars have relatively high bonnet lines, so as to leave an under-bonnet void to meet pedestrian impact legislation. But thanks to a unique under-bonnet airbag, this car doesn't need to allow for that, so its bonnet line can be much lower, part of a lean, wide coupe-like stance in a shape very slightly longer and wider than rival BMW 1 Series or Audi A3 models.

Pleasantly different then, an observation equally applicable here in the cabin. Of course it needs to be good if sales are to be stolen from the likes of the BMW 1 Series and the Audi A3, a tough assignment tackled with an unpretentious 'Designed Around You' philosophy epitomised by this beautifully-positioned infotainment screen that, once you've figured out its complicated menus, enables you to deal with audio, navigation, phone and other functions almost without taking your eyes off the road.

Prices sit in the £20,000 to £35,000 bracket. To put that into perspective, you're looking at a comparable model-for-model premium of around £1,500 over what you'd pay for a mainstream Focus or Astra in the family hatchback sector.

It's not these cars that Volvo is really targeting with the V40 though. The brand would prefer to be stealing sales from much posher so-called 'premium' compact hatches, cars like the BMW 1 Series, the Audi A3 and the Mercedes A-Class. What is different though, is the spec you get as part of the deal.

All models come with alloy wheels, electronic climate control that also cools the glovebox, plus leather-trim for the gear knob and for a steering wheel that has audio controls for an eight speaker stereo with USB and iPod inputs, operable via the same 5-inch colour screen you can use to set up the Bluetooth connection for your phone. This display can also use Volvo's Sensus infotainment and navigation system.

We are seeking to appoint a teacher who is passionate about teaching and learning and holds high expectations of achievement for all children. This is an excellent opportunity for a talented teacher to further develop in a supportive environment and would also provide progression opportunities for a teacher looking to develop their leadership skills.

This is a full time position but part-time would be considered for the right candidate.

Closing date: Monday 18th May at noon

Please see our website for more details.

We are committed to the safeguarding, protection and welfare of our children and expect all staff to share this commitment. The appointment will be subject to satisfactory references and DBS check.

MISSING CAT (REWARD)

My beloved cat Nikki has been missing since 15th April 2015 from Gordian Way, Chells Manor, Stevenage. She is a 4 year old female tabby cat. She doesn't wear a collar but has been microchipped (if anyone takes her to the vets they will scan her free of charge and help reunite her with her family).

Nikki is a very timid cat therefore she probably won't approach strangers for help. If anyone sees her please contact me on 0758048975.

Thank you.

Essex County Cricket Club

New leg-spinner Malik turns out straight away in loss

ESSEX has signed leg-spinner Adeel Malik on a three-month contract.

He is available for all forms of cricket and went straight into the squad against Gloucestershire, making his debut on Sunday in the LV= County Championship match at The Essex County Ground.

Malik, 29, has been training with Essex over the winter and played in a pre-season Twenty20 match against Middlesex.

He is the brother of former Pakistan player Shoaib Malik. He will wear the number 51.

Malik bowled just three overs, which went for 15, in Gloucestershire's first innings, but made 25 from 23 balls in Essex's first innings, a knock that included three fours and a six.

He then made 13 in the second innings and saw his two overs smashed for 16 as Gloucestershire secured a nine-wicket win on Tuesday.

Head coach Paul Grayson said: "Adeel has spent the winter training with us and has made a good impression. He took wickets for the second XI last week and he fully deserves this chance with the first team."

Meanwhile, Essex have revealed that interest in Twenty20 cricket at Chelmsford appears to be soaring, with sales up more than 20 per cent on the figures for this stage last year.

Supporters and members are being urged to secure their tickets as soon as possible, as the sales are expected to increase further as the first home game of the season approaches, against Surrey on Saturday May 16 at 1pm.

This match is a Felsted Family Funday, with great activities planned for all ages to enjoy.

Danny Macklin, commercial director, said: "Twenty20 is a format of the game that generations of cricket fans are enjoying more than ever. With five Friday nights, a Thursday and Saturday game we have been blessed with seven expected sellout games.

"As a club we are placing equal emphasis on selling out every seat and hospitality place, while providing an excellent experience for every fan.

"We took the decision, over the winter, to introduce a new £10 ticket for everyone under 18. This has proved very popular, especially for the opener against rivals Surrey at The ECG.

"The club has also just installed a new state-of-the-art big screen. During NatWest T20 Blast matches, this will show replays and highlights and give people, young and old, the chance to see themselves on the big screen."

Tickets for the games are still available and can be purchased by visiting the website www.essexcricket.org.uk/tickets or by calling the ticket line on 01245 254010, which is open Monday to Friday, 10am – 4pm, and on Saturday between 10am and 12.30pm.

You can also buy your tickets in person at The ECG, Monday to Friday, 9am – 5pm, and Saturday from 9am to 12.30pm.

I'll soon be back to bowling at full speed

EVERYTHING is still going on course with my recovery and I am now bowling at batsmen, which is the next step.

It is all progression and so far it has been going really well, I am just getting fitter and stronger.

I should be featuring in a couple of the second XI T20 games in the coming week and also I am hoping to play against the Essex Premier League XI next Wednesday (May 13) at Chelmsford.

It is always nice to play against them and also it is great that the money raised will be going towards the Rob George Foundation.

There is a lot of talent around the league game and there are guys in our side that have come through that system.

The boys were a bit disappointed that they couldn't pick up the win against Surrey last week, but it was always going to be a tough ask on that flat wicket.

The boys would have liked a crack at it and they had got themselves into a position where they weren't going to lose the game.

They would have loved to have got out there and had a bowl on the final day, but unfortunately the weather didn't allow.

Promoted

There is a massive points difference between a draw and a win and it is difficult to get out of County Championship Division Two, but the best way to get promoted is be one of the teams with the most wins.

Surrey will probably be one of the teams that will be battling with us for promotion.

It has been brilliant having my dad [Don Topley] around me while I have been coming through the ranks at Essex.

It is nice to have a permanent coach and someone in your life who is always there.

He knows me inside out and he has great experience when it comes to cricket.

I am very lucky to have someone like that.

Last Saturday a few of us went to the horse racing at Newmarket.

It is a good day and to be honest it is a surprise that we haven't been before.

We always have a great time at the races, but unfortunately nobody tends to win any money out of it!

Mickleburgh wants to cash in on good form

Batsman is keen to turn strong starts into big scores

by Matt Harris

sportsdesk@hertsexnews.co.uk

JAIR MICKLEBURGH wants to turn 30s and 40s into big scores after making a promising start to the season for Essex.

The top-order batsman had a productive winter playing for North Sydney Cricket Club in Australia and came back to hit a century and half-century against Cardiff University in pre-season.

He has followed that up with 46 and 23 in a low-scoring game against Kent at Chelmsford, before making 61 in an opening stand of 155 against Surrey, Essex's highest first partnership since 2013.

He then made 42 and 31 in another low-scoring contest at home to Gloucestershire this week, where Essex lost their first match of the season by nine wickets.

In Sydney the 25-year-old put what had been a difficult 2014 season firmly behind him, opening up with an unbeaten 142 on his debut and following that up with seven half-centuries.

Playing Sydney Grade Cricket, he scored 667 runs in 12 innings, at an average of 60.64.

"I've kind of carried on my form from the winter," he said. "I went away to Sydney and played on some good wickets and scored some runs.

"As one of the top order it's probably my responsibility to kick on and score big to put us in a good position. In a way it's been good, but I'm a little bit disappointed that I've not been going on to get big scores.

"At this stage of the season there's always going to be the odd good ball around the corner, but I'm hoping I can turn those 30s and 40s around and get the team in a really strong position to win the game."

Essex's defeat by Gloucestershire on Tuesday saw them fail to make more than 200 at the Essex County Ground for the fourth time in as many innings, scoring 159 and 199, though in the second knock against Kent they didn't need to.

Issue

However, Mickleburgh says there isn't an issue and that, after securing five consecutive county championship victories at Chelmsford, they won't let the defeat affect them.

"The wicket was fine, we need to play on wickets that get results, we don't want to play on wickets that give boring draws," he said. "In this game we didn't perform and turn our starts into big scores in both innings.

"We've played some really good cricket at the back end of last season and going into this season, so the guys' spirits have not been hit too hard.

HITTING HIS STRIDE: Jaik Mickleburgh says he has carried on the form he showed in Australia this winter Photo by Gavin Ellis/TGSPHOTO

"It was a bit disappointing but Liam Norwell bowled a pretty decent spell and changed the momentum of the game.

"There were some poor decisions by us over the days, and in four-day cricket when you lose two or more sessions it costs you."

Week in numbers

25 On his First-class debut for Essex Adeel Malik scored 25 from 23 balls against Gloucestershire

9 After his history-making century last week at Surrey Dan Lawrence came down to earth with a bump, scoring a total of nine in the match against Gloucestershire

4-59 Jamie Porter's figures against Gloucestershire in first innings

Good week/ Bad week

Kishen Velani

Made his maiden half-century for Essex in the second innings against Gloucestershire, scoring 58.

Graham Napier

Not the best of games for Napes. He scored eight runs and finished with match bowling figures of 1-54.

A FOURTH-place finish was secured by Harlow Penguins' junior squad at Barnet Copthall.

Penguins were up against some of the UK's strongest clubs in the first round of the National Junior Swimming League.

"All the swimmers that competed should be congratulated, some were making competitive debuts which is a big ask at any time but at this level of competition is huge," beamed head coach Martin Stringer.

The talented nine years boys' squad of Max Arnold, Lucas Hine, Ethan May and Joseph Williams took the plaudits.

They won four of the six races they competed in as a squad, dominated the relay events and won both the 4x25m freestyle and 4x25m medley races.

Ryman North Play-off semi-final: Harlow Tn 2, Thurrock 2 (Thurrock won 4-3 AET)

Hawks lose out again in the play-off lottery

Extra-time heartbreak after night of drama at Arena

by Alan Scott

alan.scott@hertssexnews.co.uk

A NIGHT of high drama and extra time at The Harlow Arena ended with Harlow Town suffering a shattering defeat in the play-off semi-finals to Essex rivals Thurrock.

It was an evening former professional footballer Warren Goodhind might want to forget, he scored an own goal after 18 seconds, gave away a penalty and then capped it all by getting sent off in extra-time.

Harlow were stung by that astonishingly early goal.

Les Thompson's cross from the right was flicked into his own net by Goodhind from close range, under pressure from Thurrock skipper Lewwis Spence.

Harlow slowly awoke from their slumber and on eight minutes skipper Dave Cowley's shot from 20 yards thudded against the left post with the Fleet keeper, former Hawks player Rhys Madden, well beaten.

Poacher

On 17 minutes Harlow levelled. Cowley's free-kick was pumped high into the box and Junior Dadson beat a defender before firing towards goal, as poacher Alex Read pushed it over the line from a couple of feet out.

Moments later, the Hawks had a fortunate escape when a shocking back pass from Goodhind left Thompson through but Andy Walker saved brilliantly with his feet against his old club.

The hosts went in front on 32 minutes. Dadson cut in from the left and delivered a sharp low pass to Read who flicked it home superbly at the near post.

But the visitors remained a threat as Ross Wall's shot from inside the Harlow box hit the upright near half-time.

Harlow lacked the energy and drive of the first half in the second period.

minutes. Walker saved brilliantly from Charlie Stimson but the striker finally scrambled home at the third attempt through a sea of players.

Read and Harlow sub Billy Jones, a surprise choice with the experienced Jamie Guy left on the bench, were denied a winner in normal time.

Read cut a disconsolate and isolated figure in the latter stages.

Just three minutes into extra-time the visitors took the lead for the second time in the match.

Walker came rushing out and Thompson launched a fantastic lob from the right edge of the box which beat the keeper.

Penalty

On 100 minutes Thurrock won a penalty when Goodhind brought down sub Steven Carvell, but Robert Clark blasted the penalty wide of the right post.

But as the first period of extra-time was about to close Thurrock made it 4-2. Carvell broke into the Harlow box and played the ball neatly to Wall who made it 4-2 from close range.

The first period of extra-time ended on a sour note as Hawks centre-half Josh Urquhart was stretched off in pain with what looked like a serious injury.

Fifty seconds into the second period of extra-time Harlow gained hope with a third goal. Jones' shot was blocked and fell kindly to Dadson to stab home.

In the dying seconds Goodhind and Stimson were sent off after a fracas following the Hawks defender's late tackle.

Jones then had a close-range effort cleared off the line as Harlow were denied an equaliser with the last kick of the game.

Brentwood Town beat Thurrock 5-0 in Sunday's play-off final to earn promotion to the Ryman Premier Division.

Passion of Cunningham so heartfelt

by Alan Scott

alan.scott@hertssexnews.co.uk

SPEAKING to Hawks chairman John Barnett half an hour before kick-off in the crunch play-off semi-final against Thurrock, he told me of the club's ambitious plans for next season.

Barnett revealed the plan was to bring in five top quality players, who had agreed to come to The Harlow Arena – only if promotion to the Ryman Premier Division was secured.

But less than three hours later those dreams had turned to tears as Thurrock left most of the 901 crowd dejected.

Almost preempting what was to follow, Barnett said to me: "It's not about luck, it's whoever wants it the most tonight."

It was the third time Hawks boss Danny Chapman has come within touching distance of promotion to Ryman Premier.

Striker Alex Read must feel he is jinxed as it was the fourth time he has lost in the Ryman North play-offs.

But the man I felt most sorry for was the club's chief executive Tom Cunningham.

If only all of his players showed the sort of passion and spirit the former QPR and Leyton Orient defender has that runs like a river through the 59-year-old, and sometimes erupts like a volcano.

You could never say Cunningham does not wear his heart on his sleeve.

The last 20 minutes of extra-time Cunningham was like a man possessed.

Encouragement

He was standing next to the halfway line in front of the main stand barking encouragement and advice to the likes of Junior Dadson and Fabian Simms.

A cynical person might claim that he has a lot at stake and his company, Platinum Sports Management, have invested hundreds of thousands of pounds in the Essex club. That, I feel, would be rather harsh.

Cunningham has been the driving force behind rescuing a club which looked set to fold just a few years ago.

With an astute, tactical football brain, I have no doubt the Hawks would have been promoted a couple of years ago had he decided to take charge.

He has been the heart and soul of the club over two spells, and carried out the groundwork when the Hawks were promoted to the Ryman Premier the last time, back in 2007, even if then player-manager Ryan Kirby took the plaudits.

A phenomenal season saw the Hawks notch up 103 points this season and in many years that would have been more than enough to win the title.

Fans might worry now that Platinum's investment will dry up.

I don't think that will happen because they have spent so much already, not least the £350,000+ on the 3G artificial pitch, which brings in lots of extra revenue.

But they will have to think long and hard about next season and their strategy.

Fans will hope they continue to throw money at this project.

But the simple truth is that the only way forward in the long term is if more spectators come through the gates and continue to make this club sustainable.

Case for defence says skipper

DAVE Cowley is adamant Hawks must bring in some top-quality defenders to ensure a title-winning campaign in Ryman North next season.

"We let in sloppy goals [against Thurrock]. We have let in sloppy goals all year. This has not really helped," he said.

The Hawks had the second least defence in the top six, conceding 58 goals in 46 games – 17 more than champions Needham Market.

Cowley said: "We will sit down and I will have my views and opinions. We will definitely talk about the defensive issues. We have had to win games by four or five goals and let in three goals. Even at the start of the season we let in a lot of goals.

"If we had a more solid defence it would have given us more opportunity to win games and it might have been a different story.

"The fans and the management know that that has been our weakness. Hopefully we will look to strengthen and come back stronger.

"Going forward we are frightening. We deserved to go up."

Cowley knows the huge potential at Harlow, not least because an aggregate crowd of more than 1700 people who watched the last two home games. "There were nearly 1000 against Thurrock. It just shows we are a massive club. We need to keep our fan base and go up," he said.

The captain was touched by the incredible support from Harlow fans.

Even in defeat against Thurrock, the Harlow faithful were singing and visibly proud of the team's efforts this term.

"I feel for the fans. They are the best in the Ryman League.

"I suppose that's football. It's just gutting to lose the league by one point. It was devastating. I am just gutted for the fans. It was not a nice feeling [against Thurrock]. But we must stay positive and move forward.

"It has been a great season and I have thoroughly enjoyed it."

STEELY DAN CAN TAKE HAWKS UP

Boss right Chap to seal promotion next term – Cowley

by Alan Scott

alan.scott@hertsessexnews.co.uk

SKIPPER Dave Cowley is adamant boss Danny Chapman is the right man to take Harlow Town up to the Ryman Premier Division.

The Hawks suffered a shattering 4-3 extra-time defeat to Thurrock in the play-off semi-final and understandably there are doubts over the manager's future considering the amount of money he has had to spend on players.

Midfielder Cowley is hopeful Chapman will remain at The Harlow Arena next term.

"I like to think so. I will sit down with Chappo and Tommy [Cunningham, chief executive] and see what plans they have for Harlow," Cowley said.

"Danny has his new role as director of football but he's a great manager. I can't see him not being manager [next season]," said the 27-year-old midfielder.

Massive club

"It's a massive club with great fans. Hopefully this is not too much of a setback and we go again next year. One hundred per cent we can win it next year if the players stay together. We've got a good dressing room."

Harlow came within a whisker of notching the victory at Needham Market which would have been the difference in terms of winning the league, but the shock home defeat to struggling Cray Wanderers last month was arguably the decisive defeat.

"I don't think Harlow have ever got 103 points before. It's absolutely gutting. We were very unfortunate. Football is a cruel game," Cowley bemoaned.

"We scored the goal at Needham that was disallowed. Even [against Thurrock] I think we were unlucky.

"Unfortunately we had to succumb to the play-offs. I think us and Needham deserved to go up. We finished 19 points ahead of Thurrock.

"Chappo was proud of every one of us. I won't look back with any regrets because we only lost five games. That's a massive achievement but to think we have nothing to show for it is a huge blow."

Cowley was proud to be named the captain by Chapman earlier this season and has forged a strong relationship with the boss.

"Chappo gave me the armband, he has put his faith in me. I was surprised to get the captaincy but I don't think I have let him down," Cowley said. "I am proud and happy to be captain and long may that continue."

Loughton wipe away Harlow

REHMAN AHMED'S Harlow warmed up for their Shepherd Neame Essex League Division One opener at home to Hainault & Clayhall with a disappointing 87-run friendly defeat against Loughton last Saturday.

Batting first Loughton made 186-7 from their 45 overs.

Loughton opener Ubaid Ur Rehman Kaini hit 49 and Mahmud Ali Khail struck 40 for the hosts.

Nicky Baxter maintained his impressive start to the new season with 3-44 from his nine overs.

In reply, opener John Perry scored 19 but teenage prodigy Alan Jones could only muster 7.

Skipper Ahmed went for a duck and when influential batsman Ahmed Khawaja went for just 19, the writing was on the wall.

Tailender Ross Vasani chipped in with 13, but the batting generally failed as Harlow were skittled for just 99.

Bilal Butt and Harry Watson both took three wickets each.

Town progress in League Cup

NEW Harlow Town opening bowler Owais Qasim made his debut in Saturday's excellent Dukes League Cup victory on Saturday.

The Phoenix Park side dispatched fellow Division Two side Horndon-on-the-Hill by seven wickets.

Batting first, the visitors were immediately put on the back foot with some excellent swing bowling by Qasim.

Dan Farmer sent back Jack Walsh (10) before being replaced by the ever improving Omar Ayaz who removed Connor Hammond (25) before uprooting the middle stump of Liam Hubbard and Stephen Edwards in a tight and productive spell.

Horndon rallied as skipper Jeff West made an aggressive 83 to help set a total of 174 all out from 38.2 overs.

Ayaz (4-15) returned towards the end of the innings and finished off with another cartwheeling middle stump to remove the Horndon skipper.

Qasim (3-29) also returned to finish his spell and was
